Armando Lucero

COO

Globexplore Drilling, S.A. de C.V.

Mr. Lucero started in the drilling industry in 2006 and has held various field and management positions in his career, and today he serves as the company's Chief Operating Officer. Armando is a professional engineer and has a degree in industrial and production applications. His frank nature and determination have made him a valuable ally in the successful fulfillment of the company's efforts.

He has several years of experience in the areas of Operations, Maintenance, Logistics and Administration and has led the growth of the company in specialized drilling services such as True Man-Portable and Deep Hole Drilling, among others.

“Man-Portable Drilling as an Eco Friendly Alternative”

Nowadays, in a world where mining and exploration companies share the same vision for operating in an environmentally and socially sound manner with a strong commitment to responsible mining, we are continuously looking for ways to reduce the footprint of mineral exploration. We aim to meet our clients' goals of discovering mineral resources that add value and returns to their shareholders, while respecting the environment. Globexplore offers specialized drilling methods, including Man-Portable rigs, that efficiently achieve target depths on time while minimizing environmental impact.
